PRICE OF THIS NUMBER 10 CENTS.

ABSTRACT OF RULES.

The Library is open every day from 8½ A. M., till 10 P. M. On Sundays and holidays no books are given out, nor other business transacted.

The Librarian may loan on each share or subscription two works, not exceeding four volumes in all; provided that only one of the works is a novel.

Extra books may be loaned to members on the payment of ten cents a week or part of a week for each work.

Books may be taken by non-members on deposit of twice their value and payment of ten cents per week for each volume.

On application and payment of one cent for postal-card notice, any books in the Library that are allowed to circulate, including the recent novels, will be reserved for twenty-four hours and notice sent to the applicant when they are in the Library.

Unbound pamphlets and periodicals not numbered, and books set apart by the Purchasing Committee for use in the Library, and distinguished by a green label, shall not be taken from the Library without the consent of the Committee.

Duplicate copies of several Magazines and Reviews are put in temporary binding and numbered for circulation as books.

New books may be kept from the Library one week only and not renewed; other books may be kept two weeks and may be renewed once only.

Any member who shall detain a book from the Library beyond the prescribed time, shall pay for each work ten cents a week or fraction of a week for such detention.

One section of the Library designated as CLASS 40, consists of books of a popular character which may be kept for an indefinite time and are subject to no fine.

Books which are purchased in consequence of the application of a member, will be reserved for the applicant, and a notice will be sent to him when they are ready for circulation.

No one shall be allowed to take out a book if the tax on his share or any fine or other charge against him shall be one month unpaid.

If any member shall lose or injure a book, he shall replace the same, or pay an equivalent in money.

If any member shall deface, mutilate, or destroy, any book, newspaper, pamphlet, or periodical, he shall replace the same and shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars for each offence.

If any member shall take a book from the Library, without having it charged to his account, his share and all right to the use of the Library shall thereby be liable to forfeiture.

Any member may send other persons for books, and may, by a writing revocable at his pleasure, designate a person who shall be allowed to use the Library in his stead.

Cards may be obtained at the desk, by means of which a stockholder may introduce a non-resident by entering his name and residence upon the card and becoming responsible for his deportment. This will entitle the holder to the use of the reading rooms for one month.

If any member shall fail to return a book within two weeks after he shall have been requested to do so, the Librarian is authorized to replace the volume detained and charge the cost thereof against the account of the delinquent.

Reading Notes on Herbert Spencer and His Works.

The fame of this philosopher preceded him to this country by several years. His recent arrival on our shores has quickened the desire in many minds to know something more of the man and of the system of which he is the acknowledged exponent. As a help and a guide to such, the following list of Mr. Spencer's works, and of works and articles in periodicals relating to them has been prepared. Following the titles of some of his works, are given references to criticisms and reviews of these particular works, and also references of a more general character to the man and to his writings. The figures at the right designate the location of the books on the shelves of the Mercantile Library.

☞ This List was prepared immediately after Mr. Spencer's arrival in this country, and was mostly in type before the appearance of Mr. Foster's very elaborate list. A few references have been added from his article and a few from other sources.
